The crain to wanve into their crazy-quilt plurality is not only larger than any tabulations, upon which they have based ever given in a Presidential year, but their hopes of victory. They did not eclipses any former plurality in the State, exceeding that of two years ago by some ten thousand. The later returns received at this writing, covering 375 towns, fully sustain the estimates made Monday night.

This splendid result has been achieved in the face of the most determined elforts of the silver Democracy. They were thoroughly organized, have sent their speakers into every section of the State and were confidently counting on keeping the Republican majority down. Some of the leaders even predicted that the Republicans would not equal their plurality of 1892, which was less than 13,000. The result must therefore be taken as a popular test of the issues involved in this campaign before an intelligent people, many of whom are engaged in agricultural pursuits, to whom the Democrate hoped the silver doctrine would especially appeal. The hope was a baseless one, however, as is shown so conclusively by the vote returned. Honest Democrats loyally joined with the Republicans in making the verdict as emphatic as possible, and are to-day joining with the Republicans in rejoicing over the magnitude of the victory. The people who have been looking to Maine for encouragement have not been disappointed and the laspiration of the yerdict will be far reaching in its effects. As goes Maine so goes the Union. Our institutions will be protected from the aseaults of Bryan, Aligeld & Co., the Abarchistic managers of the Chicago convention.

The 16 to 1 Fizzle.

For some weeks past the Commercial has been answering questions and instructing the people to vote for free all ver as the que ster necessary to complete restoration of much desired prosperity.

As it tabulates the returns we would really like to know what it thinks the people think of its 16 to 1 nostrum. It has spoiled any quantity of nice white paper in distributing misinformation and if it can find a spark of comfort any-where we vish it would point it out. Our modesty forbids us to say "we told you, so," but if the Commercial will only look over the files of THE WHIG it will ed how firm a faith we had in the penple who have so magnificently justified that confidence. Maine is all right.

Washington, Sent. 15. Grest Britam's responsibility for the spread of choices from its original breeding place, the delta of the Gangee, in India, is the topic of a paper by Dr. James F. Love, of Philadeiphin, written from Alexandria, Ezzet, and printed in the public health reports for the current week, issued by the marine hospital service. It calls attention to the fact that the operation of the Surz caual makes Exppt the highway of travel to the Orient, and thus opens the way for the casy and speedy transmission of cholera to Europe and America by means of the abourst pligranges to Mecca.

The cholera plague now raging in Exppt had its origin in the pligrininge of tast spring, and already its vicilias number 16,000. In consideration of the fact, says Dr. Love, that the current of travel which pussed to many parts of Europe and thence to the United States centralizes in Alexandria, your correspondent believes that the safeguard of these countries lies in the absolute exclusion of cholera from Egypt, and suggest the following provisions to that cod: The Mohammedan (xadus from India should be effectually stopped until it is shown that no pligrim earries contagious or infectious dispace with him.

When pilgrams congregate prior to the departure for Mecca, right sanitary meanslabould be enforced in order that no germ laden devotes shull depart, Again, all pilgrams should be detained to determine whether any cholera exists smong them. "The Cotton King."

The meledrama, exemplified in the popular play, "The Cotton King," met, with a very favorable reception from a large audience at the Opera House last evening, both by reason of its merit and trom the fact that it was produced and staged in a manner which commenced it to all. It is no stranger to Bangor audience but was none the less appreciated on that account. The company is a carefully selected one in every role and the circular letter to each club asking for name of club, number of members, aclis fresh, realistic and handsome. The mill, woods and ruins' scenes are especially account in the method of the central feeting in fraink, cerdial bearing, a universal similar than the make an election of officers for the Maine state Federation of officers for the Maine state of the officers of officers for the Maine state Federation of officers for the Maine state of the officers of officers for the Ma "The Cotton King."
